VINTAGE

We find ourselves before a vintage year with a long winter of Sorian cold, many rains and a practically nonexistent spring. Its summer wasn't very warm and September, rainy, which delayed the ripening, making our grape harvest start on October 18, our latest to date. The harvest arrived, despite the difficulties, and we obtained a juicy fruit with excellent acidity.

TASTING

Elegance, balance, fresh fruit together with an enveloping, gluttonous mouth, with tannin that rounds it up and creates pure harmony.

CONSUMPTION

We found ourselves before a vintage year full of fruit, and that is why you can start enjoying La Loba, which can also of course be stored thanks to its potential and structure. It may need some time for oxygenation due to its high concentration and power. Relax and enjoy... cheers!
